

Wind Wildlife RESEARCH MEETING

NOVEMBER 12–15, 2024

Sponsorship Opportunities

The Renewable Energy Wildlife Institute (REWI) invites you to sponsor the 15th biennial Wind Wildlife Research Meeting (WWRM). This is a chance for your organization to stand out as a science and solutions leader in wind energy and wildlife and related natural resources.

Sponsor this unique event to position your organization's thought leadership, enhance your brand, and create growth and networking opportunities while supporting the most important North American wind-wildlife and habitat meeting of the year.

- ▶ Spotlight your organization's commitment to solving renewable energy and wildlife challenges.
- ▶ Expand your brand reach and visibility with a vast network of key audiences, including energy companies, consultants, conservation and science organizations, and government agencies.
- ▶ Promote your corporate ESG and biodiversity strategy.

About the WWRM

The biennial WWRM provides an internationally recognized forum for researchers and stakeholders to share and engage on the latest science focused on better understanding the risk of wind energy to wildlife and developing solutions to avoid, minimize, and compensate for impacts. The meeting brings together thought leaders to discuss priority topics and themes in the wind-wildlife arena.

WWRM attracts over 300 in-person and virtual attendees, including academics, researchers, conservation scientists, consultants, federal and state officials, NGO representatives, and industry professionals.
